In economics, an externality is the cost or benefit that affects a party who did not choose to incur that cost or benefit. When there is no externality, allocative efficiency is achieved; however, this rarely happens in the free market. [unreliable source?] [better source needed]. Economists often urge governments to adopt policies that will "internalize" an externality, so that costs and ...

In economics, the hold-up problem (or commitment problem) is central to the theory of incomplete contracts and shows the difficulty in writing complete contracts. A hold-up problem arises when two factors are present: Parties to a future transaction must make noncontractible relationship-specific investments before the transaction takes place.; The specific form of the optimal transaction ...

This raises a curious observation: it should really only be kosher to round off >1 digit at a time. If you only know something to the accuracy of 44.5, you can't round to 45, only to 40, because the 0.5 is already "rounded" within your understanding of its accuracy" it could be a 44.48, and therefore the rounding to 45 isn't appropriate.
